"A dream come true." That's the new Emmerich
 Manual Training High School!

For years it has been the dream of South Siders to see a new Manual erected at Pleasant Run Park way and Madison Avenue. Finally, on September 6,

1952, Manual opened the doors at 2405 Madison
 Avenue, to 1,734 students.

A new era began as the wide-eyed students streamed through the bright halls. The smooth tile walls and gleaming wood reflected their bubbling enthusiasm. Suddenly the neat bricks and steel ribs came alive; Emmerich Manual Training High School had a heart, a thumping, singing heart created by the voices of her proud students. And why not?

The $4,500,000 school with its 21-acre plot, 75 classrooms brimming with equipment, its blond wood and cream tile cafeteria, its auditorium had all been part of the dream. And now they were part of the day, the everyday, of EMTHS.

the house of dreams

Joy Seiler assists Mr. E. Edward Green by reading one of the daily announcements over the public address system.

Mrs. Rausabel Williams, "the lady in the bookstore," helps Bert Frentress, James Wessel, and Winifred Giggy stock up on school supplies.

Pictures, pictures, and more pictures! A picture record of their school days is revealed when Sandra Gladson and Linda Gandy open their locker door.

A familiar sight to Manualites this year, workmen were busy all winter completing the building. This one is erecting bleachers in the gymnasium.

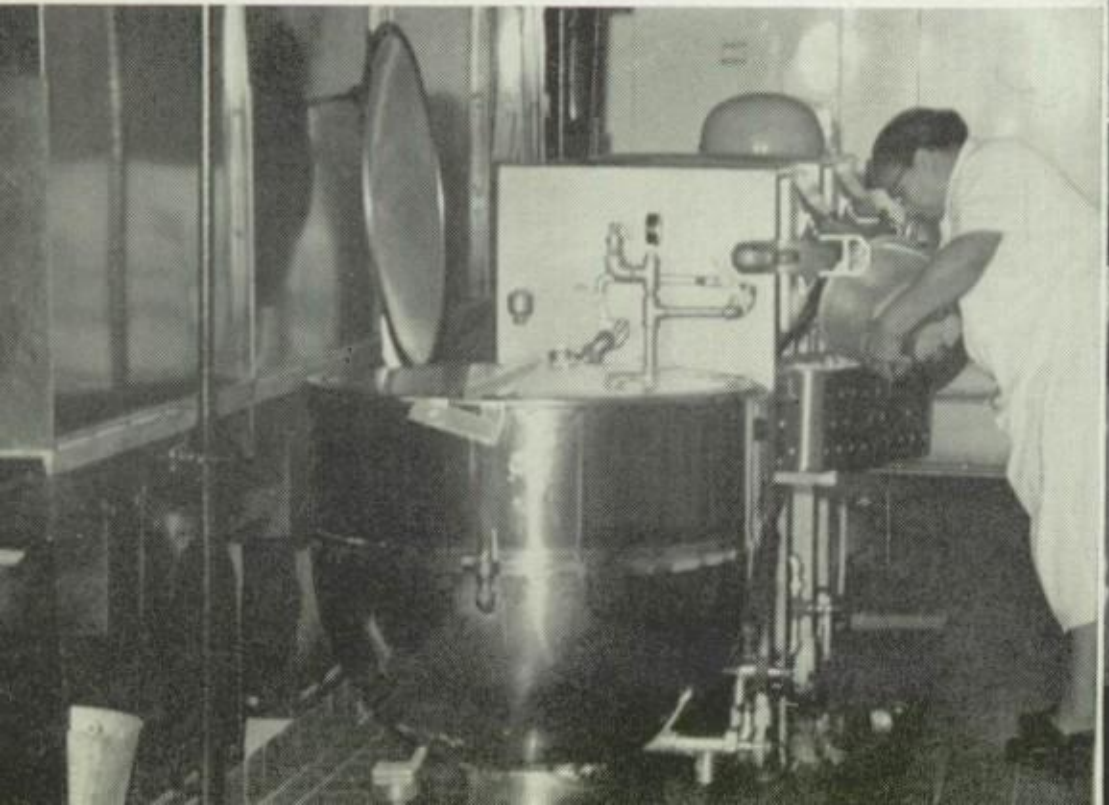

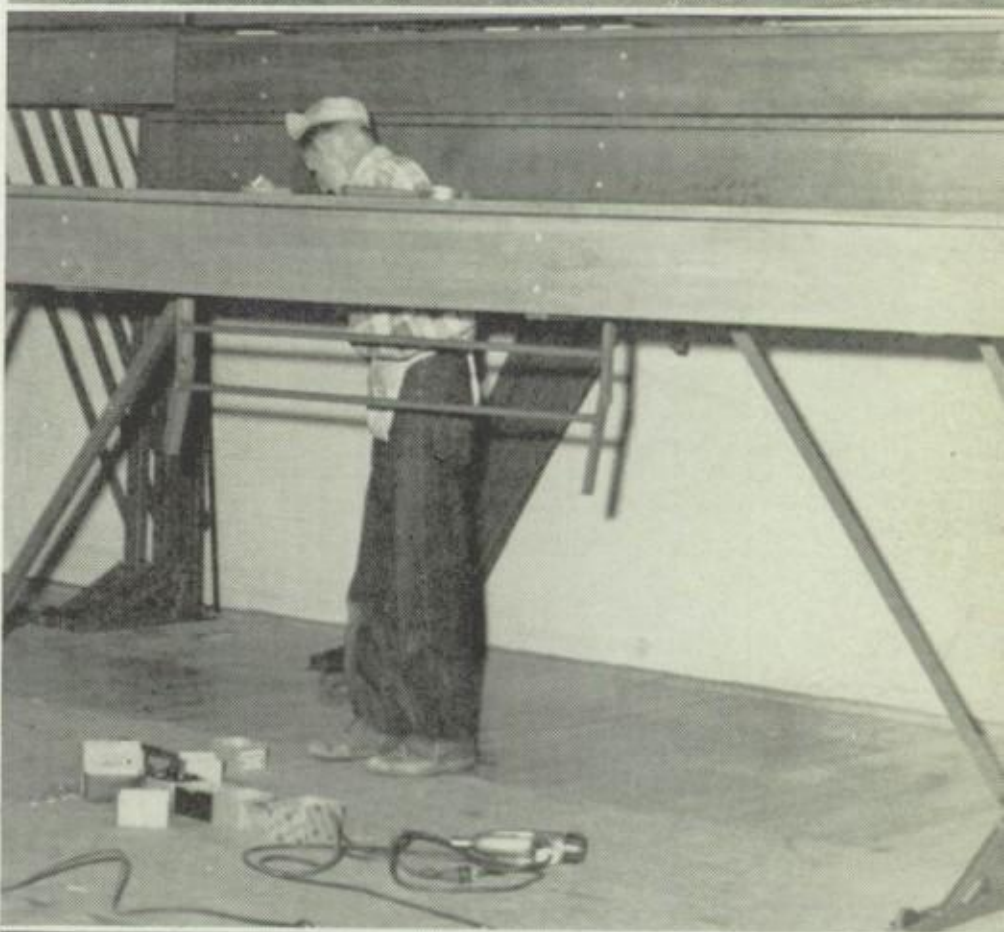

Working in the cafeteria during one of the lunch periods, Shirley DeMore is ready to assist hungry students Barbara Spilker, Florence Watson, Bob Sodrel, Robert Carson, and Carl Keyler.

"Behind the scenes," Miss Nellie Carter helps prepare one of the gigantic meals served at Teepee Town each day.

This huge 500-horsepower boiler, located in the north end of the gymnasium building, "puts the heat" on Manualites.

Between classes Wayne Biggers, William Fitzgerald, William Burns, William Brill, Thomas Vittorio, and Louis Coy catch up on the latest gossip.

Also engaged in deep conversation are Mary Lib Chapman, Jack Patterson, and Mr. Douglas Conrod, descending the stairs inside the main entrance. The receptionists are Wilma Privett and Madonna Chilton.

Back of the job, the dreamers

Making the dream come true wasn't easy. Besides money and hard work, it took time and persistence on the part of many people who were determined that Manual should not be second to any school—anywhere! Most of these people were Southsiders who especially realized the need for a new high school in their vicinity. The Roines, Masoma, and Manual Alumni, as well as P-TA groups and civic clubs throughout Indianapolis gave their wholehearted support to this program.

It all began about 13 years ago when a petition, signed by thousands of taxpayers requesting the new school, was presented to the Board of School Commissioners. Preliminary plans for the building were not begun until three years later. Then in 1945 the present site was purchased.

Southsiders began to believe their dream was finally coming true; however, because of World War II and restrictions on construction, plans for the school were postponed.

who made the dream come true

Finally on August 1, 1951, after the plans had been approved by the school board, construction of the new Manual began. The architectural planning was done by D. A. Bohlen & Son. The scholastic and gymnasium units were constructed by Hagerman Construction Corporation and the auditorium, by Thomas A. Berling & Sons. The cost of the site, building, and new equipment totaled approximately $4,500,000.

During this time, as in the past and present, two organizations contributed much to the success of Manual—the P-TA and the Dads Club. Without their active interest and generous gifts Manualites would be without much of the new equipment that came with the new school.

Another important group which helped promote the growth of the present Tepee Town was the Manual administration, headed by Principal C. Edgar Stahl.

And now it's up to the students. It's their responsibility to see that EMTHS remains as great a school as it is today.

Dads Club members selling popcorn at one of the basketball games are Mr. Elmer Von Pein, president, and Mr. George Kraft.

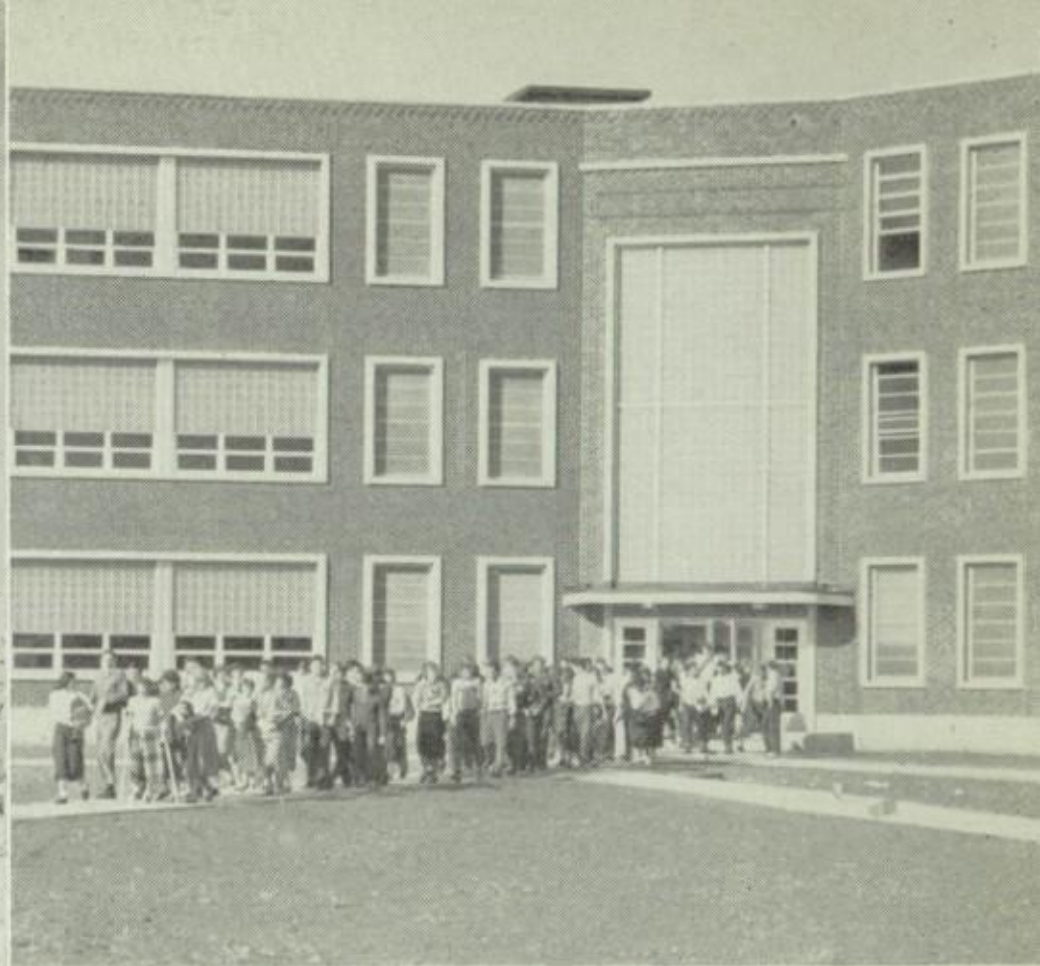

They saw a

August 2, 1951, is an important date in the history of Tepee Town. The ground-breaking ceremony that morning marked the beginning of the realization of the dream of a new Manual. Participants in the ceremony (Top Left) are Miss Arda Knox, retired faculty member; Sylvia Specker, editor in chief of the 1952 Ivian; Dr. Herman L. Shibler, general superintendent of education, and Mr. Carl Brandt and Mr. Clarence Farrington, representatives of the Board of School Commissioners.

During the next two years eager Southsiders watched the dream rising out of the dust of Madison Avenue. In the early stages of construction (Top Right) it was hard to visualize this large mass of beams as a beautiful building, but as time passed the structure began to look more and more like the EMTHS everyone had pictured. Brick by brick the dream of stateliness became a reality. Last part of the dream to be realized was the auditorium (Bottom).

dream of stateliness

When construction of the main building was completed, it wasn't long before eager Redskins began arriving for their first view of their new Teepee.

One of the first sights which greeted the excited students who streamed into the main entrance (Top Left) was a beautiful floor design presented partially as a gift from the company which laid the terrazzo flooring in the hallways.

A new occurrence in the daily lives of Manualites this year was the trip across campus (Top Right) for classes or an assembly in the gymnasium. For the first time in the recent history of Manual, all students and faculty members could attend a program at the same time in their own gymnasium (Bottom Left), which has a seating capacity of 2,500.

Another new feature this year was the 140-car parking lot, put to good use by both students and teachers (Bottom Right).

The place for dreamers to dream

At the beginning of the fall semester, the gymnasium wasn't quite ready for enthusiastic football fans; so the first pep session was held on the campus just outside the east entrance to the auditorium unit.

Highlights of the pep session, held after school in late September, were cheers led by Joy Seiler, Marshia Clark, Jean Sommer, Al Helms, and Barbara Brown, and a performance by the Manual band.

Candidates vying for the title of King Manual I and his queen, who reigned over the first annual Homecoming celebration, were introduced.

It isn't hard to imagine what dreams were dancing through the minds of those Redskins who attended the first pep session, urging their Tribe on to a season studded with victories on the gridiron.

Good Luck Always,
Mike
You're really great and
I think a lot of you!
Always,

The first graduating class from the new school! This has been the hope of senior class members for nearly a decade. For the class of '54 it is a dream come true. From the very first day in their unfinished cafeteria-homeroom, the seniors have led busy lives.

The class constitution was revised early in the school year by a committee consisting of Lura Bennett, Donald Durrett, Donald Lindemann, Ronald Mescall, Joy Seiler, and James Wessel. This was the first step in the formal organization of the Senior Class.

Top: Candidates for Homecoming queen were seniors Joyce Gladson, Jean Sommer, Marsha Clark, Lura Bennett, and Joyce Mills.

Bottom Right: Donald Lindemann, Marie Schrader, and Wayne Brehob receive history awards for outstanding history work from Mr. A. R. Williams, head of the department.

Seniors dream of things that were

Senior activities were in full swing with the election of class officers, who played host at the Senior-Parent Guidance Conference, designed to help senior parents and faculty members become better acquainted.

Among outstanding seniors in the Class of '54 was Kathryn Weiland, who was chosen by the seniors and faculty members to represent Manual in the Daughters of the American Revolution's "Good Citizen" contest. Seniors nominated for the title three girls with qualities of dependability, service, leadership, and patriotism. Other candidates were Lura Bennett and Marie Schrader.

Elected to head the Student Affairs Board for the year, Donald Durrett was assisted by James Wessel, first vice-president; Marie Schrader, secretary, and James Gobble, treasurer.

Wearing their Senior Class colors, cerulean blue and white, and armbands designed by senior Donald Crow, class members celebrated Senior Class day. On this special day the seniors stepped out in their Sunday best. An after-school program and dance were held in the cafeteria for the class members and sponsors. A new tradition was born at Manual on Senior Class Day. A senior gavel was presented to class president Richard Carter by Principal C. E. Stahl. The gavel, part of the old Manual carried over to the new, is made of wood from the old building. It will be used by future senior presidents.

Visions of bright future beckon

As Christmas rolled around, seniors made plans for a Santa Claus Shindig. The party and dance were after school in the cafeteria. The feature of the party was a visit from old Saint Nick himself.

Something new for the seniors this year was Senior BIE Day. This program gave seniors an opportunity to visit businesses and industries for guided tours.

Senior candidates for the Fiesta Popularity Contest were Mary Calvert, Kathleen McCormick, James Gobble, and Joseph Mickel.

The Senior Dramatics Class chose "A Date with Judy" for the class play, scheduled for May.

Class members will celebrate their last day with Dame Manual at a spring Class Day. Following Commencement June 7, the new graduates will dance at their Senior Prom.

For the class of '54 the four years of high school life are drawing to a close. But the door to a different life, different friends, and different work will be unlocked as they receive their diplomas on Commencement Night.

Bottom Left: Parents, teachers, and students enjoy refreshments at the Senior-Parent Guidance Conference. The reception was in the school cafeteria.

Left: Janet Guyon is making use of the basket under her desk as she tucks her extra books into this convenient space. This "book nook" was a unique feature in Tepee Town's classrooms. Other pupils are Lillian Meister, Mike Preston, and Geraldine Brammer.

Right: Judith Foster and William Garnatz demonstrate the use of green chalkboards, a special feature of the new building. This color is more restful to the eyes, and the squaws and braves pictured above seem to find it interesting to keep their eyes on the "green sheen."

In classrooms . . . dreams are

Bottom: Occupied in serving Manual as library assistants are Ruth Criswell and Revay Haggard. The library assistants helped Manualites translate the Dewey decimal system when the library opened its doors. This "information please" center was a popular spot.

"Out of this world" describes the classrooms found in the new school building loved by all loyal Manualites. These dream classrooms contained the last word in equipment, and rooms for special courses such as chemistry had more than standard fixtures. Lessons written on green chalkboards were easy on the eyes. Bulletin boards were no sooner installed than they were decked out in full regalia. And colors of pale green, ivory, rust, and light pink gave the classrooms real glamor. The Manual Tribe had the annoying problem of extra books solved with handy wire baskets under the desks. Clock-watchers suffered no strained eyes, for each room had a clock over the door. And what's more, electric control mechanisms kept each on accurate time.

Tepee Town's bookworms found the library a splendid source of knowledge. New books kept the Tribe busy reading on many a wintry night, and kept library assistants occupied checking them out each day. The floor-to-ceiling windows facing Madison Avenue completed the perfect picture of the library.

Aching muscles and tired backs were the first rewards for beginning physical education students, but persistence brought more satisfying results. Teepee Town's gymnasium provided a place for noise, merriment, and the struggle of Manualites trying to conquer the push-up.

After the collapsible bleachers were pushed against the walls, the spacious gymnasium floor was divided by a movable partition, and boys and girls had separate spaces for such activities as tumbling, basketball, baseball, volleyball, and apparatus work.

As the car started off with a jerk, reminders came from Mr. Jack Foster, driving instructor of EMTHS: "Don't feed the car so much gas . . . Use the clutch." The 1953 Chevrolet, the official training car, was a new type of classroom where Manualites gained useful knowledge "behind the wheel."

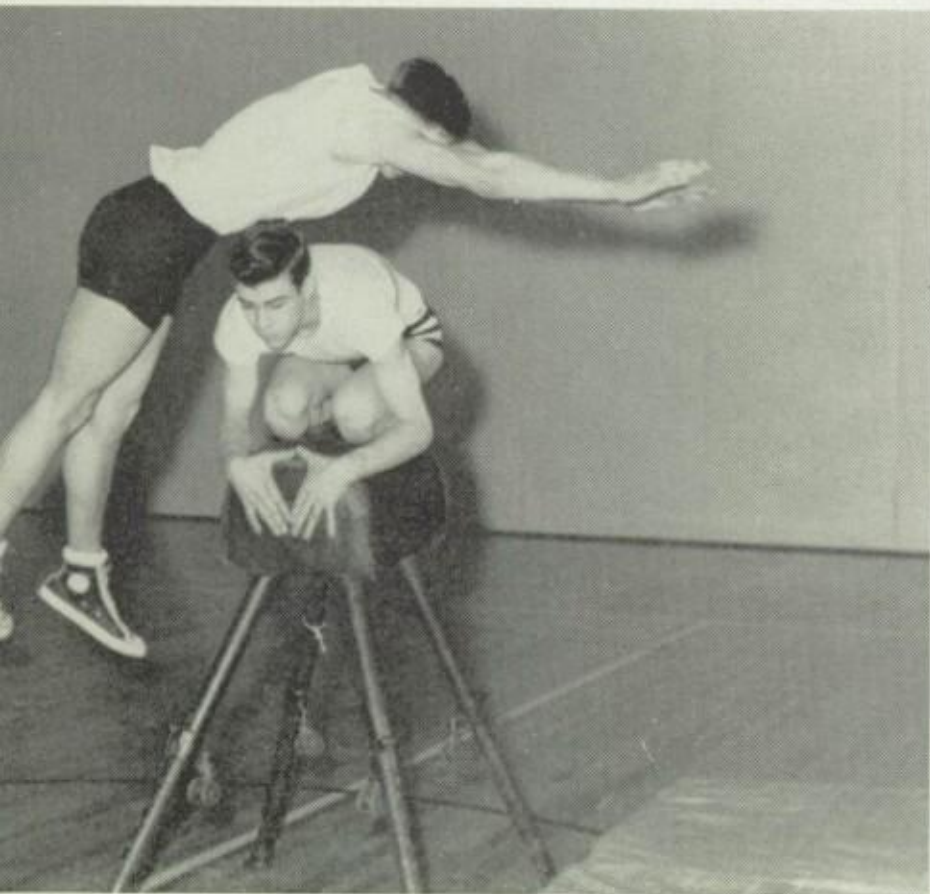

Manualites interested in the science of farming enrolled in the agricultural classes. They kept busy with activities such as testing soil and learning about animal breeds.

getting better all the time

Bottom Left: These "horses" may not be alive, but they are just as tricky to handle as "Native Dancer." Looks easy? But let these agile Manualites tell you how simple it really isn't. The new gymnasium provided a fine place for Manualites to stretch their legs.

Bottom Right: A new type of classroom, the driver training car, is inspected by Jack Hess and Betty Marshall. No dents, no scratches—these beginning drivers of Dame Manual must have learned their lesson well. Garfield Park was the training ground for "big wheels."

Dreams, books,

Adding new zest to Tepee Town's English department this year was the reading laboratory. To improve reading habits and speed was the purpose of work in the laboratory. Seniors could take developmental reading as an elective, but underclassmen saw reading films, took speed and comprehension tests, and timed their reading with Shadowscoptes as part of their English course.

The quoting of "to be or not to be" was not an uncommon practice around the halls of Manual. Hamlet fans were members of the senior literature classes. And if members of the senior speech class had been around during the time of Demosthenes, they certainly would have provided stiff competition for him. The Manual stage was not graced by the acting of Helen Hayes or Maurice Evans, but seniors trained in dramatics classes proved to be very capable. The senior class play was one of their main projects. Journalism students, too, contributed to English department activities by giving extra time to publication of the weekly paper, the yearbook, and news releases.

"Sum," "esse," "fui," and "futurus" may be Greek to many, but to Chief Howard Thrall, instructor of Latin, and his tribe, these words mean the principal parts of the verb "to be." Some ambitious students chose to major in this difficult but fascinating subject. Spanish students under the instruction of Senora Lucille Rose aimed for a mastery of their language. At Christmas time these students added a cheery note to the festivities by caroling in Spanish.

Top: A far cry from the school boy's slate of old is the reading laboratory of Manual High School. These students are using the Shadowscoptes to time their reading. Manualites boosted their reading speed as much as 100 words a minute and understood what they had read, too. Teachers who guided this reading race were Mr. Richard Blough and Miss Elizabeth Goett.

Middle: Mr. Howard Thrall holds the attention of his Latin class as he traces the intricate pattern of Roman civilization. Students found this course an excellent background for many fields.

Bottom: Tepee Towners were enthusiastic over radio speech, and many took turns at the microphone. It's no wonder they were eager, for the class had at its disposal the last word in radio equipment. Facilities were set up for regular FM broadcasting. The school was always willing to lend an ear to the station's projects.

are each a world

The terms " $9x - 3x$ " and "sine and cosine" may be unfamiliar to many, but they are everyday words to the mathematics students who haunt the east wing of the third floor of EMTHS with compass and protractor. Students received instruction in basic and advanced algebra, plane and solid geometry, and trigonometry. They also developed projects in some phase of mathematics.

These projects, together with general class work, helped students to establish good study habits. Each problem was a challenge and each solution, a victory. Conquering the octagon and finding the unknown quantity were not always easy tasks, but understanding was part of the sum total, and that made the "aftermath" pleasant.

Bunsen burners, Erlenmeyer flasks, and microscopes were some of the new equipment Manualites had to help them on their journey through the wonderland of science.

During the fall biology students took their butterfly nets and waded through the underbrush in search of wild game. Members of the physics and chemistry classes explored their paths in scienceland by planning projects of research and experimentation while agriculture classes plowed ahead with miniature crops in the department greenhouse.

Some of the near-by universities sponsored contests for students interested in science. Knowledge acquired by practical application of theory helped make everyday living a real adventure. The rich blue of oxydizing gases, the lush green of tropical growth, and ice cream tints of the spectrum made the science department one of Manual's most colorful.

Top: Early in the year Mrs. Jennie Howe put her Algebra I students to work measuring the design found in Tepee Town's lobby and then drawing this design to scale. Alberta Lambert and Thelma Medsker are standing and David Drummond, Donald Baker, Paul Hollenbaugh, and Eugene Spencer are kneeling.

Middle: These super sleuths, Beverly Snowball and Donna Hanstad, are looking for insects to add to their biology collection. Each year biology enthusiasts undertake this big project. During the fall these classes took trips to Indiana's state parks.

Bottom: Mr. Noah Ellis captures the attention of Ruth Ann Agan and Thomas Whitney by explaining the fundamentals of the atom. Squaws and braves kept up with modern progress in science with models and drawing displayed by the science department.

A dream which was

Art Production class was a vital part of Tepee Town. Lillian Meister and Morris Meek are discussing plans for a project while Stanley Pinnick is industriously working on a poster in the foreground.

Randell Hendricks and Riley Tetrick make sure that their rifles and other equipment are in top shape. ROTC plays a "major" role in lives of many a Manual lad.

Brushing up on the numbers of the Music Memory Contest held in March at Technical High School are Phyllis Payne, Lois Strong, Lawrence Barker, Larry Warshawsky, and Mary Catherine Heckman. The new record player made the listening fun.

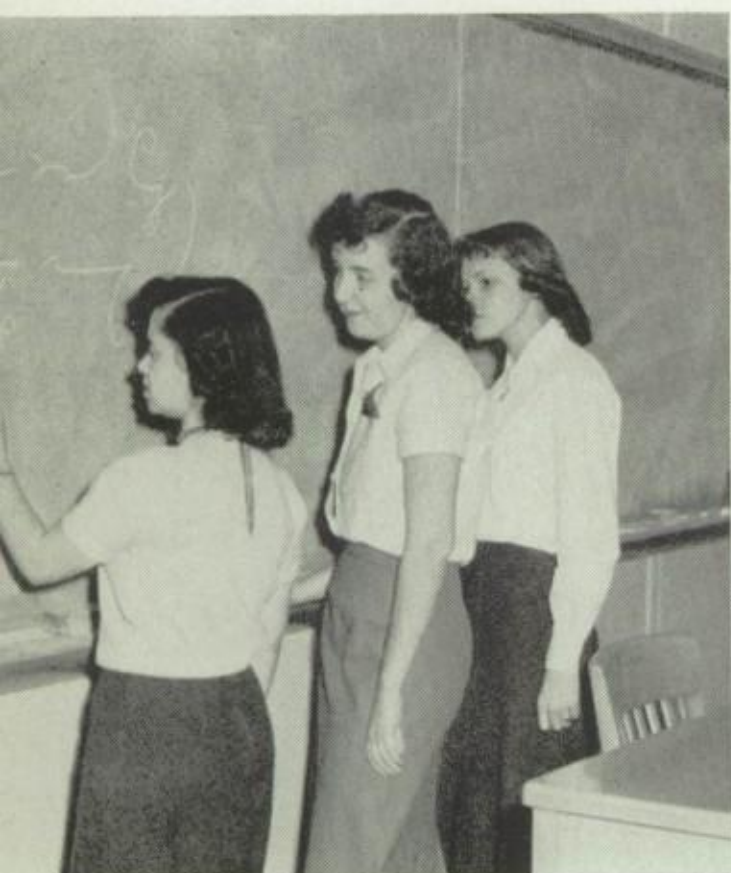

At-ten-tion! Forward march! About face! These commands, used in ROTC drills, played a major role in the school days of many Manual braves. The boys were really able to "crack down" on their rifle range, located under the auditorium stage. The Military Ball and federal inspection were colorful highlights of the year for Manual's ROTC.

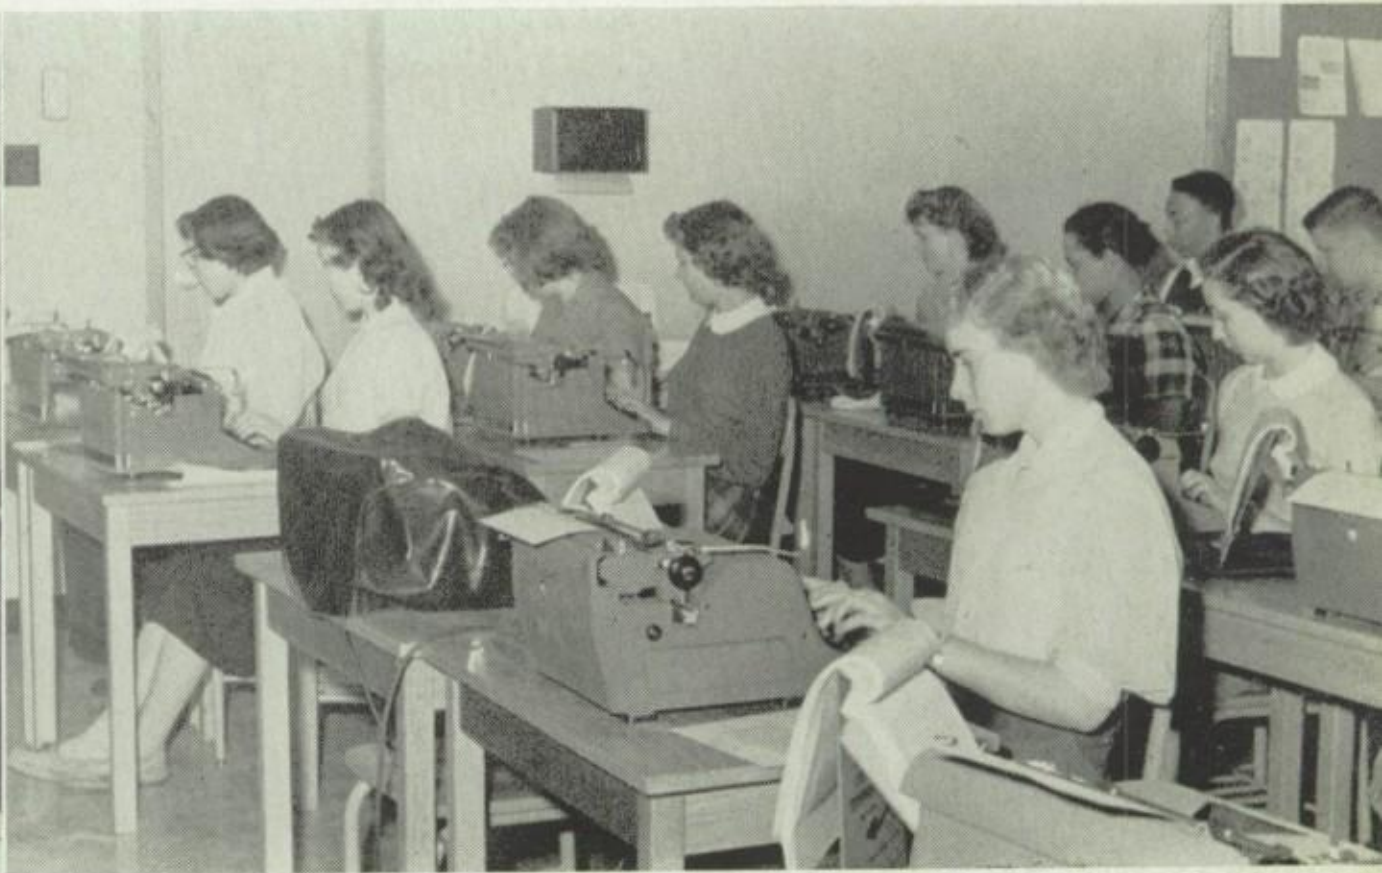

The music department waited a long time to move into its new quarters, but the wait was well worth while. After the second semester began, the south side of the new auditorium unit began to bustle with the exciting activities of moving instruments, music stands, and uniforms. The Band supplied one kind of "beat" for football games and other gala occasions. The Orchestra provided melodious strains for various programs, and choral groups gave many a lovely serenade.

Tepee Town would have been handicapped without the aid of the art department. Art Production class members' posters for Manual's activities kept squaws and braves well-informed. Senior arm bands were produced by art classes. Many artistic students became adept at producing lovely jewelry. Ceramics and sculpturing were also on the program, along with the fine art classes.

not all a dream

Carol Morell, Delores Ritter, and Jane Torrenga know very well what these shorthand symbols mean. They are students of Miss Jacqueline Duffey.

The familiar clicking of keys immediately identifies a nearby typing class. Squaws and braves work hard in this Type IV class to earn awards for speed and accuracy.

A tour through the business department of Tepee Town would be very eventful. Clicking typewriters would probably be the most familiar sound to our ears. Speed tests, drills, and letter-writing kept the students busy during the type period.

"Take a letter, Miss Jones" is a phrase that wouldn't bother Tepee Town's capable shorthand students. The students in Shorthand III and IV struggled with their transcriptions, but they were well-rewarded by learning the hieroglyphics of their art. Salesmanship classes trained many squaws and braves to be "heap good" in the selling field. Office training classes proved to be valuable to students desirous of doing office work. Learning the ropes of business was fun.

Does anyone have a social, political, or economic problem? After taking the course in U. S. Problems, the seniors of EMTHS might be able to give world-shaking advice on these matters. Also seniors should be well-versed on the functioning of the U. S. government. Juniors treading the halls of Manual put their time into U. S. History. World geography, Latin American history, and world history required the thought and attention of the history majoring squaws and braves.

These U. S. Government pupils are studying the types of government in various sections of the country. Stanley Coons points out a special spot on the map to onlookers Dale Loyd, Estelene Gross, Esther Quarles, Norbert Charleswood, and Patricia Willey.

Mr. A. L. Weigler, shop teacher, is helping these boys learn the ropes in mechanical drawing. The boys are Charles Green, Donald Johnson, Donald Kramer, Ralph Grant, Ralph O'Haver, and John Nelms. Drawing tables were designed by shop students.

After years of dreaming and planning, teachers of the practical arts department saw their dreams fulfilled. Passing through this first floor wing, one hears the buzzing of saws, the slamming of hammers, and the clang, clang of machinery. Auto mechanics, electric shop, radio theory, and metal shop were some of the subjects of Manual's shop sequence. Grease monkeys were found all over the auto mechanics shop, but they didn't "monkey" around in their work.

Printing classes, taught by Mr. Edward Maybury, were added this year. These classes made their presses click when tickets and programs were printed for school functions. Other classes also provided valuable services for the school. The electric shop had the framework of a house set up so the boys would have practical experience in methods of wiring. It's certain that these electric shop students were live wires.

Several students helped design facilities for mechanical drawing classes as well as some of the other classes. Shop students prepare themselves for vocations and acquire the skills that enable anyone to be a handy-man around the house.

Such stuff as

This group is trying its skill in machine shop. In the foreground are Richard Hallam, Larry Boyd, and Virgil Dilbone. Giving advice, Mr. Marion Peebles leads his brood through some of the intricacies of machines. The "grease monkey shines" proved fascinating indeed.

Mr. Leonard Nolte, woodwork teacher, is explaining to a group of "chips off the old block" the fine points of the cutting table. Interested boys are Jan Bennett, Harvey Quilter, and Frank Danz.

Members of Miss Mary Jane Grace's Foods II class displaying their homemaking abilities are Jean Skaggs, Leona Green, Josephine Rosengarten, and Shirley Swartz. Boys tried their hand at food preparation and proved quite able to keep up with the girls.

The whir of automatic washers and the chug of driers were new sounds to Teepee Town. These sounds and the warm, sweet smells of a well-ordered kitchen all issued from the home economics department. The new addition, the home management center with its rich furniture and gleaming silver, proved to be a wonderful room for classes and served as a lovely show place for Manual's visitors. Members of the fair sex enrolled in home management courses to learn the fundamentals of housekeeping.

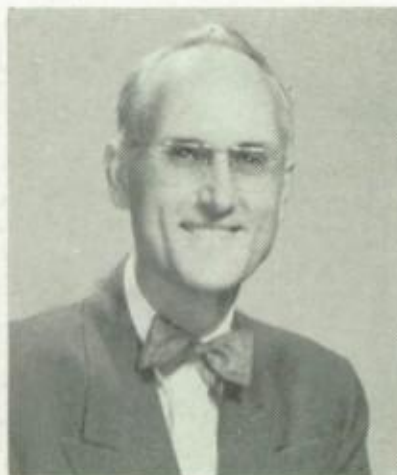

Girls and boys (this is not a misprint) participated in foods classes, and many a Manual lad can beat a biscuit with the best of them. These classes had ample opportunity to face the crucial moment of company cooking as they served luncheons to school guests. Clothing classes contributed their bit by helping fill the home economics show cases with garments of their own creation. There were times when the second floor halls resembled, well, slightly, the fabulous shops of Fifth Avenue.

Health was a required subject, and many senior girls earned their health credit in home nursing.

Leta Lawrence, patient, is fed by Earlene Gauden. Other members of this home nursing class are offering friendly advice. They are Martha Brill, Carol Brown, and Linda MacMurray. Mrs. Pauline Stark is the teacher.

Faculty

The Manual community came to life late in August. Faculty members were busy moving into their new classrooms and acquainting themselves with new hall mates. Many of the teachers had watched the school develop throughout the summer. Some had eyed the many boxes of supplies being moved from the old school and wondered if there would be a place for everything.

Dame Manual's family increased in September with the addition of sixteen new teachers.

New faculty members and their niches were Mr. Richard Cummins, science department; Mrs. Helen Aldred, English department and library assistant; Miss Elizabeth Goett, English department; and Mrs. Joan Knaub, English department and assistant publications adviser.

A new teacher in the mathematics department was Mr. Ben Parke. Teaching home economics, Mrs. Martha Miller and Mrs. Betty Lou Talbott came to Manual.

Mr. E. Franklin Fisher was the new director of counseling. Mr. J. Ray Johnson replaced Miss Helen Haynes as director of placement and business education teacher. Another new teacher in the business education department was Mrs. Nancy Tash. Mr. John L. Edwards joined the industrial arts department. Mr. Jack Foster became Manual's new wrestling coach. Mr. William Kleyla joined the ranks of the music department as new Orchestra and Band instructor. Mrs. Helen Houghtalen, who was a substitute teacher last year, is now on the regular staff. Mr. Boris Chaleff returned from military service to teach science and serve as head football coach.

Top: Mr. Leslie B. Maxwell, vice principal; Mr. C. Edgar Stahl, principal, and Mr. Noble H. Poole, vice principal, discuss opportunities in the new school.

Bottom: Catching a moment's rest in the teachers' lounge, Mr. Richard Schulz, Mr. J. Ray Johnson, Mrs. Pauline Stark, and Mrs. Barbara Cook pose for the "birdie." Faculty rooms situated on each floor of the building have chrome and leather furniture.

ACTIVITIES

Manualites got a preview of what was being worn for the coming summer as Carl Keyler and Lois Strong modeled beach wear in the benefit style show at the 1953 Fiesta.

Ever seen a dream walking?

Joy over a new school cannot dim the pleasure of memories from the old. There is always the thought of "the last time in this building." One of the most popular activities last year was the Fiesta. Sponsored annually by the P-TA, Fiesta is a time of gaiety and excitement. A vaudeville, style show, and popularity contest, plus a rumpus room, auction, country store, and lots of food were main attractions.

Marshia Clark and Ronald Siersbeck, winners in the '53 popularity contest, received portable radios.

At publication time whispers of a big '54 Fiesta were circulating through the shiny new halls of Manual.

One of the highlights of the '53 Fiesta was the rumpus room, located in the girls' gymnasium, where Manualites wait their turn to try their luck at winning a prize.

Celebrating the centennial of the Indianapolis Public Schools in a city-wide Parade of Progress, Manual entered a float depicting the old Manual and the new Manual. The theme of the float was "58

Years of Progress," and Manual students who rode on the float represented various classes and activities.

The clear vision celebrate

As Manual celebrated her 58th and last birthday at 501 South Meridian Street, the Indianapolis Public Schools system began the celebration of its 100th birthday. A special feature was a huge parade during the late spring of '53. The float symbolizing Manual illustrated the towers on the old building and the entrance to the new building.

Last year was also a "first year" for the Manual League of Honor. Membership is awarded for participating in school activities and maintaining a high scholastic average. To become a member, a student must have enough honor points based on these qualifications to put him in the top quarter of the school. The top ten per cent of this group win Top Ten Honors.

Students representing the Top Ten League of Honor are (Bottom Row) Milton Jones, Mary Lib Chapman, Elaine Holland, Jean Sommer, Mary Baumer, Barbara Henn, and Kathleen Mc-

Within a dream is but a dream

This year was the beginning of a tradition that most Manualites hope will continue—a homecoming celebration for alumni of the school. Homecoming Queen Jean Sommer and King Manual I Richard Carter (Top) reigned over the celebration, were crowned by Mr. E. H. Kemper McComb, retired Manual principal.

Another outstanding event of the year was the annual Halloween party sponsored by the Madison Avenue Businessmen's Association. Queen over the festivities was Beverly Siersbeck (Bottom), elected Miss Madison Avenue in competition with candidates from Southport and Sacred Heart.

And many a glorious sight

And they came and came and came! Yes, curious parents and friends of the Manual community literally came in droves to see the city's newest and most modern high school. The event was Manual's first all-city open house on November 11. A special open house for teachers of the city was held the preceding Sunday.

Manualites were "proud as punch" of their new gymnasium when the building was dedicated November 27. Members of the alumni and school board spoke at the dedication ceremony.

Quill and Scroll members enjoyed a tea in the home management center after their initiation in November.

A flag pole, presented to Manual by the Class of 1916, proudly stands in front of the building while a flag, symbolic of years of Manual history, flies from the pole. Miss Arda Knox, former Manual teacher and Roiness sponsor, presented the flag to a student color guard in the dedication ceremony, at which former governor Henry F. Schricker was speaker.

Jane Clark and Alice Osman take advantage of the music provided at one of the after-game dances sponsored by the Student Affairs Board.

Sits one new

Manualites had numerous opportunities to learn those new dance steps this year. After-game dances sponsored by the Student Affairs Board and one sponsored by the Radio Speech Club were new developments to satisfy the entertainment desires of squaws and braves. Apparently students found the dances interesting because they were well attended.

A chance to dress up came when the music department sponsored the Snow Whirl. A floor show, refreshments, and a name band offered an evening full of fun and entertainment.

Honors were bestowed upon Russella Boyd and Dave Barton as they were crowned "Ivian Princess and Chief" at the Ivian War Dance. This dance was the last chance students had to buy a 1954 Ivian.

Scanning the headlines wasn't enough for members of the Quiz-'Em Team. They really had to study the newspapers and keep on their toes so they would be prepared when quiz time came. And when the time did come, the Quiz-'Em Team was prepared. After winning with a perfect score in their first encounter with Crispus Attucks, the team went back to work. In an overtime resulting from the perfect scores of both teams, Manual defeated last year's champions, Lawrence Central. And once again it was news for breakfast, lunch, and dinner as the team prepared to meet Technical.

Mom's chance to get out of fixing supper came on February 10 when the Dads Club invited her and the whole family to the annual Dotty-Dan-Dad Bean Supper.

Lots of good food proved interesting but other entertainment in the form of Bud Helms' six-piece band also was available. A special attraction of the evening was the presentation of a piano to the school.

Dancing to the strains of sweet music put Manualites into the mood at the Cherry Tree Hop sponsored annually by the Girls Glee Club.

Nominees for the title of George and Martha were chosen by the Glee Club then voted upon at the dance. The candidates were Lura Bennett, Martine Devney, Wilma Privett, and Joy Seiler. Vying for the title of George were Donald Crow, Ronald Hensen, James O'Donnell, and Thomas Stevason.

Under the direction of E. Edward Green, the Mask and Wig Club performed at a matinee on January 27. The one-act play was entitled "Sauce for the Goslings." On March 18, the club presented "Too Many Marys" in another afternoon performance. The entire school was invited to both productions.

The Dads Club presented the school a new piano at the annual Dotty-Dan-Dad Bean Supper this year. Trying it out, Shirley Black plays for Gerald Cannon, Mary Catherine Heckman, and Larry Barker.

Howard Sibley looks terribly bored at his parents' antics in the play "Sauce for the Goslings," given as a matinee after school by the Mask and Wig Club.

An annual event to which all Manualites look forward is the Cherry Tree Hop, sponsored by the Glee Club. Thomas Stevason was elected George, while Martine Devney was chosen Martha.

The charm of

The smell of peace-pipe smoke, the rumble and excitement of Broadway, the rippling of water beneath a showboat, and the twinkling of stars all beckoned Manualites to the four big acts of the "Redskin Revue," this year's biggest all-school stage production, given April 30 and May 1.

The name "Redskin Revue" was the result of a contest in which students submitted names and then the student body voted upon the three chosen by a special committee. Al Helms submitted the winning name.

"A Night on the Emerald," the story of life on a showboat, was sponsored by Helen Baker and Constance Banner, students, and Mrs. Joan Knaub and Miss Ruth Allen, faculty members.

Watching the stars and inspecting Mars were the pastimes of the members of the "Astronomy" act, sponsored by Carl Keyler and William Kirkman. Mrs. Thelma Morgan and Mr. Ray Johnson were the faculty sponsors.

Judy Campbell, Helen Wright, and Laura Snoddy sing to Richard Hadley, Kenneth Dornfeld, and Donald Sandberg during "Astronomy" rehearsals.

"Broadway Honeymoon" was just what the name implies, the adventures of a young couple honeymooning on Broadway. Joy Seiler and Dallas Gritton, students, and faculty members Douglas Conrod and William Kleyla were sponsors.

Natalie Stanton, sponsor of "Indian Revelry," used the theme of braves and squaws for her act. Miss Freda Hart and Mr. Ben Parke were faculty sponsors.

William Merriweather and Wilbur Davis watch Fay Wilkey and Ruth Ann Agan practice their dance in "A Night on the Emerald."

Direction of their dream

Roger Smith and Linda Gandy, co-business managers of the Booster, check bills and statements.

Under the guidance of Mrs. Ione Lloyd, director of publications, and her assistant, Mrs. Joan Knaub, the publications staff published The Booster, Manual's weekly newspaper, sent weekly news releases to the city papers, and produced the Ivian.

Notable changes in the format of both publications were the addition of 20 inches of news in The Booster and the use of advertising for the first time in the yearbook.

Mary Lib Chapman brought additional honor to Manual when she was elected president at the Indiana High School Press Association Convention held in early fall.

Lots of fun and frolic made up for the work for the 18 Manualites who attended summer journalism institute at Indiana University in July, 1953.

Burlap tepees, cardboard totem poles, clever posters, PA announcements, and perhaps some convincing persuasion were the help Lillian Meister, sales campaign manager, and roll room agents had in their quests for Ivian sales.

What may

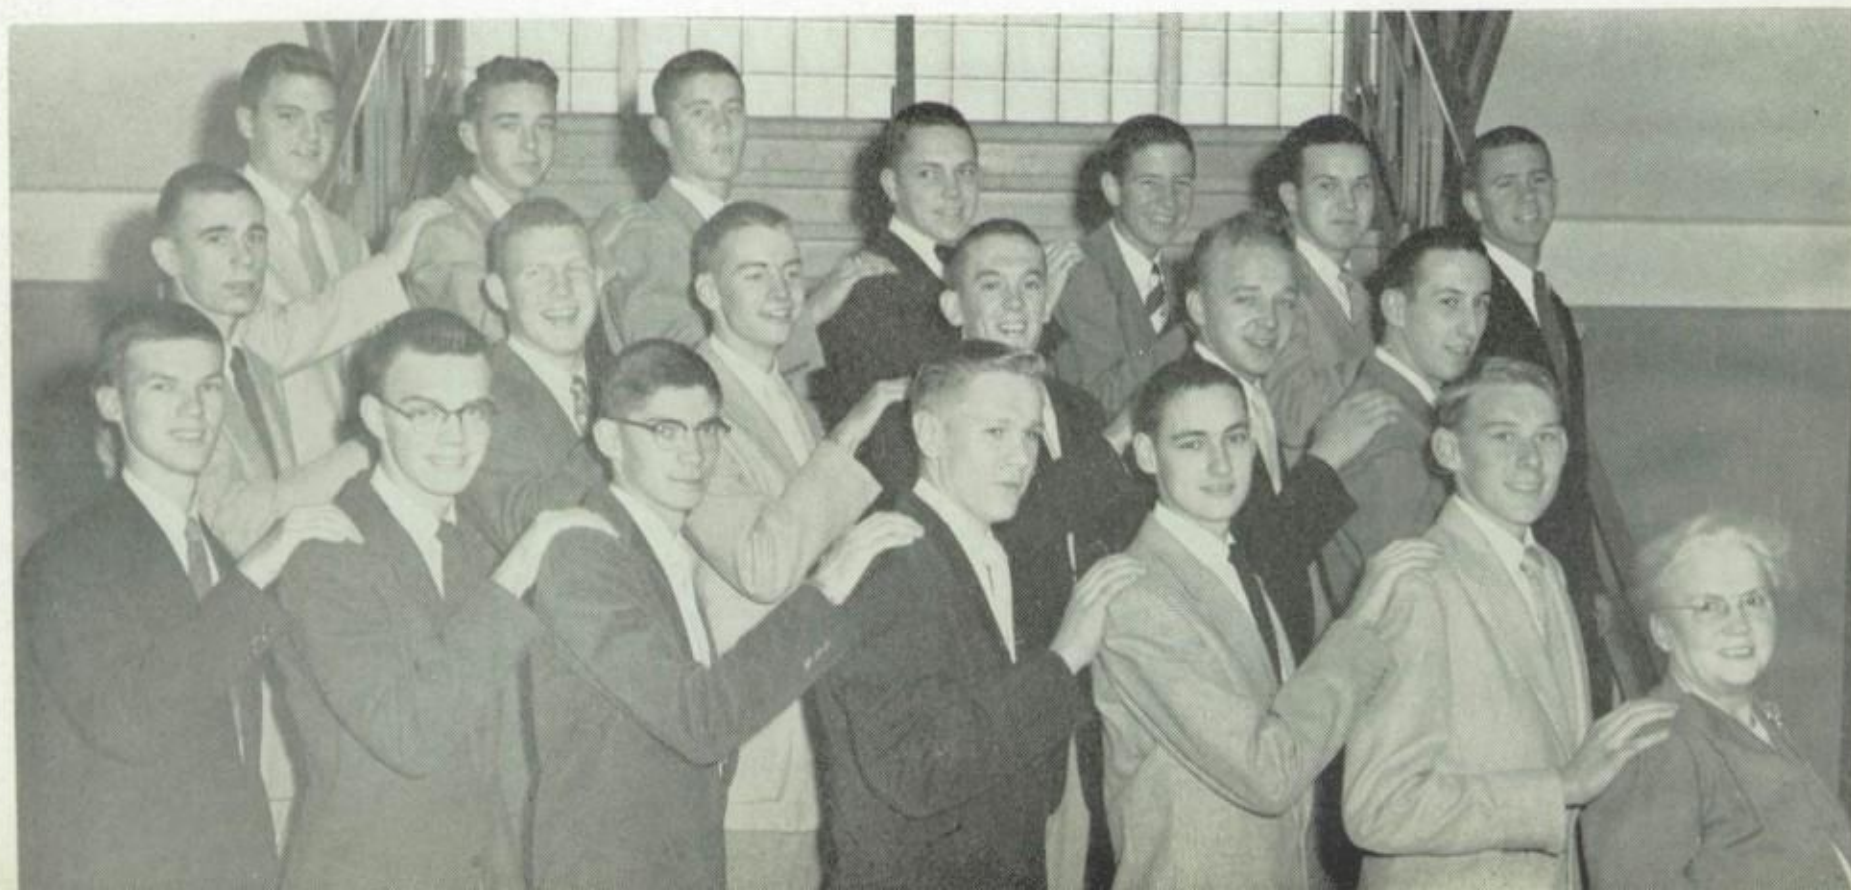

Following their motto of serving school and community, Masoma girls found many ways to carry out their ideals this year. Serving at the football awards dinner, acting as guides during Open House and participating as hostesses for the Chrysanthemum Show at Garfield Park were just a few of their activities. The Masoma Club is the honorary girls' organization for seniors and outstanding second-semester juniors. Officers this year were Kathryn Weiland, president; Lura Bennett, vice-president; Barbara Henn, secretary, and Marie Schrader, treasurer.

Another club serving Manual is the Roines, an honorary organization for senior boys. The athletic awards dinners and the annual skating party were the main projects this year. Among other activities the Roines served as guides during Open House and at the Chrysanthemum Show at Garfield Park. Proceeds from the annual skating party are used for the scholarship fund. The Roines will celebrate the club's fortieth anniversary in June with a banquet.

To enroll the school in Junior Red Cross is one of the annual projects of the Junior Red Cross Club. The money collected was used to send boxes to school children overseas and make Easter Party boxes for the hospitals. Sending entertainment to the U. S. Veterans Hospital was the Christmas project this year. The club is sponsored by Mrs. Pauline Stark and Miss Jean Wilson.

Ham Radio Club members took the Federal Communications Commission's amateur radio examination this year. David Link, Morris Meek, and Mr. Donald Hully, sponsor, have operators' licenses. The club's transmitter was built by David Humphrey. Members worked hard to learn code and transmitting and concluded the year with plenty of fun at their annual picnic. Officers were David Link, president; David Bultman, vice-president, and William Garnatz, secretary.

Work, fun, and accomplishment tell the story of the Mask and Wig Club this year. Sponsored by Mr. E. Edward Green, the club started the year by giving "Sauce for the Goslings," a one-act comedy. Later in the year the club studied make-up, directing, and the technical side of staging. Members produced "Too Many Marys" in March. Carol Stuck was president; Barbara Collins, vice-president; Sue Ledgerwood, secretary, and Sylvia Weber, treasurer.

Preparing for radio station WMHS kept the Speech Club occupied this year. Since Manual now has a new, fully equipped radio studio, speech students are constantly writing scripts, improving their diction, and learning to produce and direct in hopes of broadcasting next year. Members also broadcast daily programs for early birds at school by 8 a.m.

The glory, and the dream,

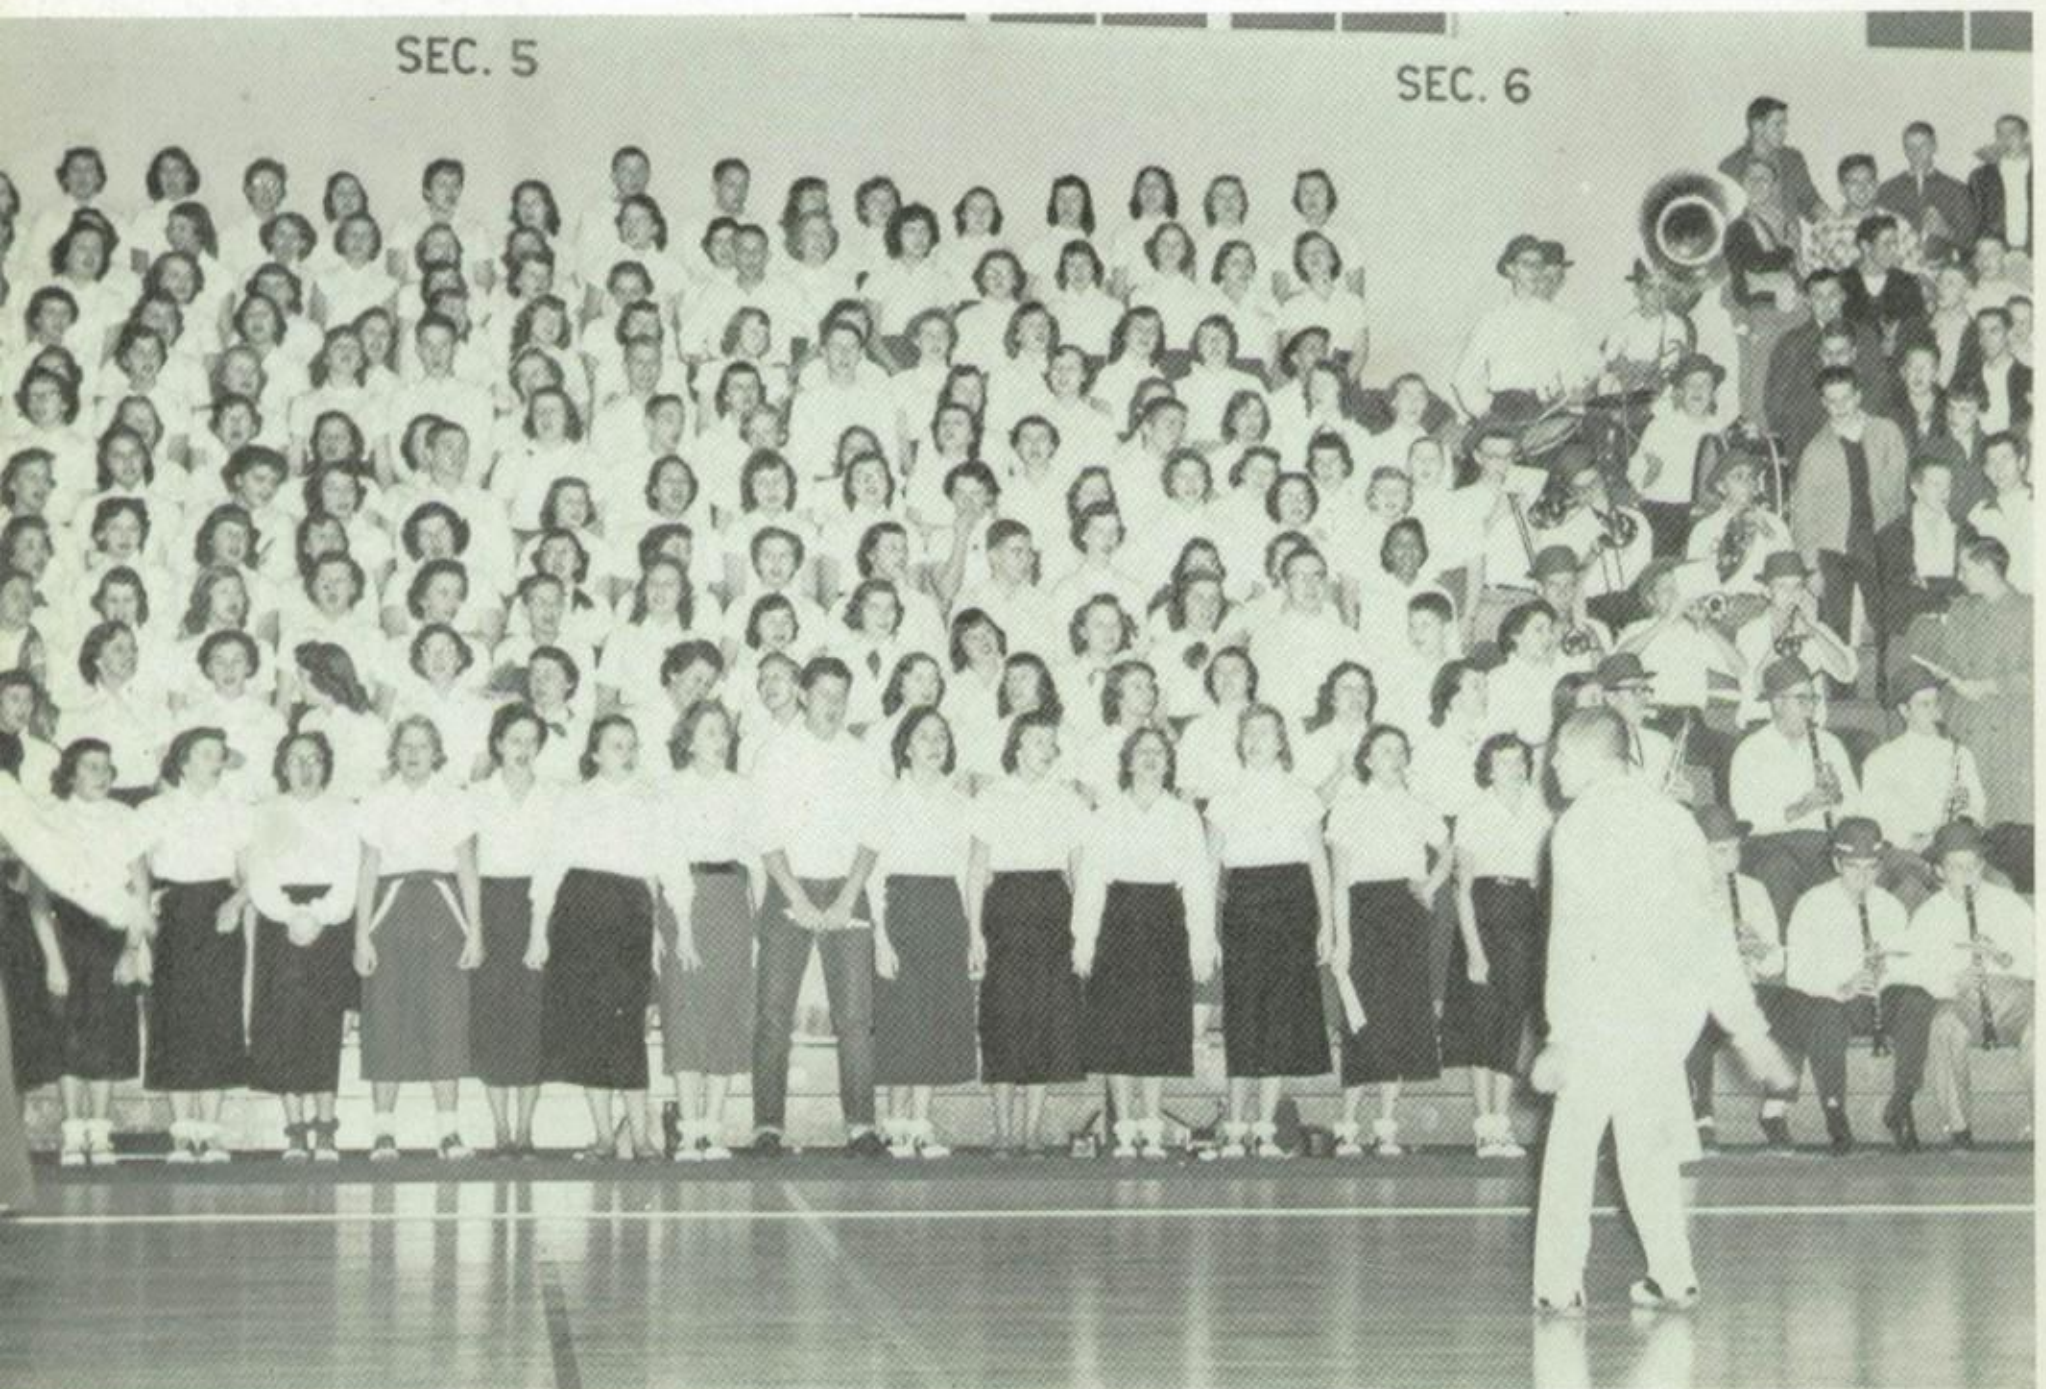

Manual's appearance, from the first game of the season to the Sectionals final, was highlighted by skill and speed on the basketball floor and color and spirit in the bleachers. The newly-formed Pep Club performed at two all-school pep sessions, and the club's interpretation of the Southport Cardinals' meeting with the pesky Redskin tribe was a hilarious moment in the Manual gymnasium.

At the Sectionals, one of the most thrilling moments in Manual's whole year, the red and white derbies of the Pep Club were a hats-off tribute to the team. The big bass drum and oompapa of the Pep Band's horns underlined and emphasized the fans' cheers. The Pep Club rocked the Butler field-house with its Manual spirit during the tourney, and later in the year, when the rousing "Go, Go, Go, Manual" was only an echo, the club planned a dance. Sponsors of the Pep Club are Mr. William Kleyla and Mr. Ben Parke.

Cheerleaders, carried on the wave of enthusiasm sparked by the Pep Club, the new gymnasium, and the unity of Manual, practiced long and hard to perfect smooth yell routines. With Swiss watch precision and Bikini bomb power, they led the eager Manualites in bright yell formations. The cheerleaders visited Technical High School in February and practiced with the ATHS cheerleaders. Besides the snap and dash of good leading, the cheerleaders stressed the importance of good public relations between schools.

Directed by the yell leaders, enthusiastic Pep Club members cheer their team with an assist from the Pep Band.

Al Helms, representing Manual, cheered during the Semi-finals. Cheerleaders Marshia Clark, Barbara Brown, Jean Sommer, Lou Ellen Crow and Al Helms were sponsored by Miss Helen Negley.

Boys with Block M's in athletics are eligible for membership in the Letterman's Club. The purpose of the organization is to maintain good public relations in athletics and to help determine athletic policies of the school. In May the club sponsored a dance. Officers were Donald Crow, president; Phil Willsey, vice-president, and James Gobble, secretary-treasurer. Mr. Noah Ellis sponsored the organization.

We see them

Going behind the headlines to trace down stories, Cub Club members developed a nose for news. The club toured the Indianapolis Times building to see the technicalities of a newspaper. The cub reporters learn fundamentals of journalism and write articles for The Booster. Professional newspaper persons were invited to tell of opportunities in journalism.

Aero, Manual's new weather club, is the first of its kind in an Indianapolis high school. ever in our dreams

Preparing to represent Chile in the Model United Nations in the senate chamber at the State House kept the Hi Y Club busy. The club is affiliated with the YMCA, sponsor of the Model United Nations. Brice Tressler will represent Manual at the national conference to be held at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio, in July.

The calls of "Swing yer pardner" and "do-si-do" issuing from the cafeteria brought back refreshing memories of calico skirts and fiddle dances. The Square Dance Club, learning the fundamentals of American folk dances, found that executing a Texas star was real party fun. Mrs. Joan Knaub sponsored the group.

Taxidermy seemed a favorite subject for many Biology Club enthusiasts. Other members preferred raising animals and blood typing for individual projects. The club also visited biology groups at other schools.

Baking cookies for the Servicemen's Center, helping to clothe a child, and giving a Christmas party for School 34 pupils were the main projects of the FHA Club. Officers were Maryellen Burkhart, president; Cammie Wilburn, vice-president; Donna Boone, treasurer; Marcia Etter, secretary; and Pat Etter, historian.

Touring the business department of L. S. Ayres & Company and Indiana Bell Telephone Company proved interesting and educational for members of the Business Girls Club. The girls also joined with the Junior Red Cross Club to clothe a child and donated toys for orphanages.

Candlelight installations of Manual's charter members of Quill and Scroll took place in November. Members must be seniors or second-semester juniors, in the upper third of their class, and outstanding in journalism. Mrs. Ione Lloyd and Mrs. Joan Knaub sponsor this organization.

Still mounts the dream

Under "new" coach Boris Chaleff, who returned for his first season of varsity coaching after a two-year stint in the Air Force, the Redskin gridders finished the '53 season with three victories and six losses.

The Tribesmen dropped the opener to Crispus Attucks' Tigers, 12-6. After battling guest Speedway in the City Football Jamboree to a scoreless tie, bowing to Sacred Heart, 13-0, and Washington, 33-6, the Manual gridders bounced back to top Howe, 14-7. In the first football Homecoming game at Manual, the Tribe bowed to Noblesville, 27-13, but then came back the next week to win over the Southport eleven, 6-0. The 'Skins lost to Ben Davis, 20-6, scalped Broad Ripple, 20-7, and wound up with a 26-13 loss to Shortridge.

Practice is everything

Between dream and reality,

Plenty of thrills packed the '53 grid season, among them the 90-yard scoring run by Phil Willsey against Southport, the 75-yard winning TD romp by Don Durrett against Howe, and the scoring opening kick-off run-back by Bob Ashmore in the Ripple game.

Dave Barton, senior tackle on the '53 football team, won the Gilbert Mordoh award as the most valuable player. The award was presented, along with the other football awards, at the first all-school convocation in the new gymnasium. The annual Roines banquet honored the team in November.

Bob Ashmore, Dave Barton, Joe Gagen, Tom

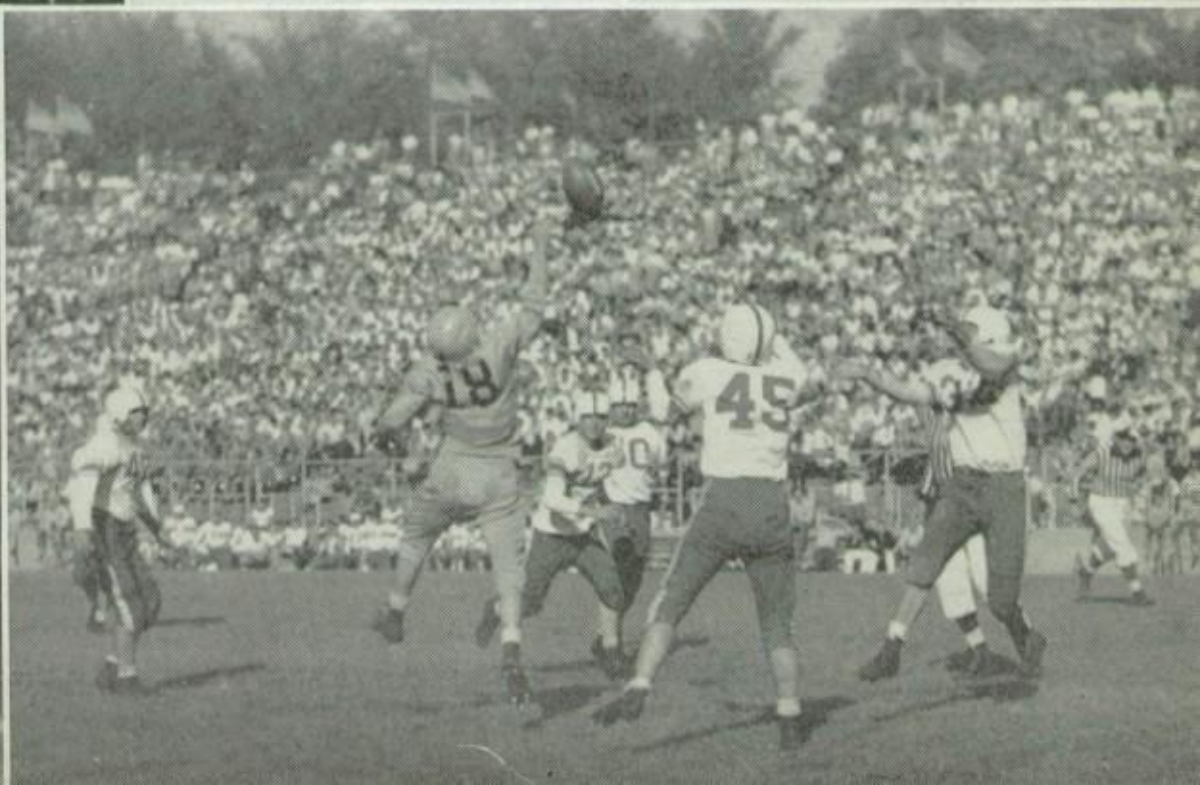

Hofmeister, Marshall Hurley, and Phil Willsey received gold footballs, highest varsity award.

Senior fullback Willsey led the varsity in scoring with 40 points. Here's the individual scoring run-down.

a strong line

Manual's reserve gridsters, coached by Mr. Noah Ellis and Mr. Russell McConnell, were able to register two victories in a five-game schedule. Wins were over Washington, 12-0, and Warren Central, 29-0. Howe, Southport, and Broad Ripple scored the defeats, 6-0, 34-13, and 7-0, respectively.

In their rout of Warren Central, four Tribesmen crossed the goal line for the Redskins—James Miller, Tommy Vittorio, Wiley Scudder, and Bob Glover.

Mr. Walter Floyd's freshman grid squad closed the season with a tally of five wins and just two losses.

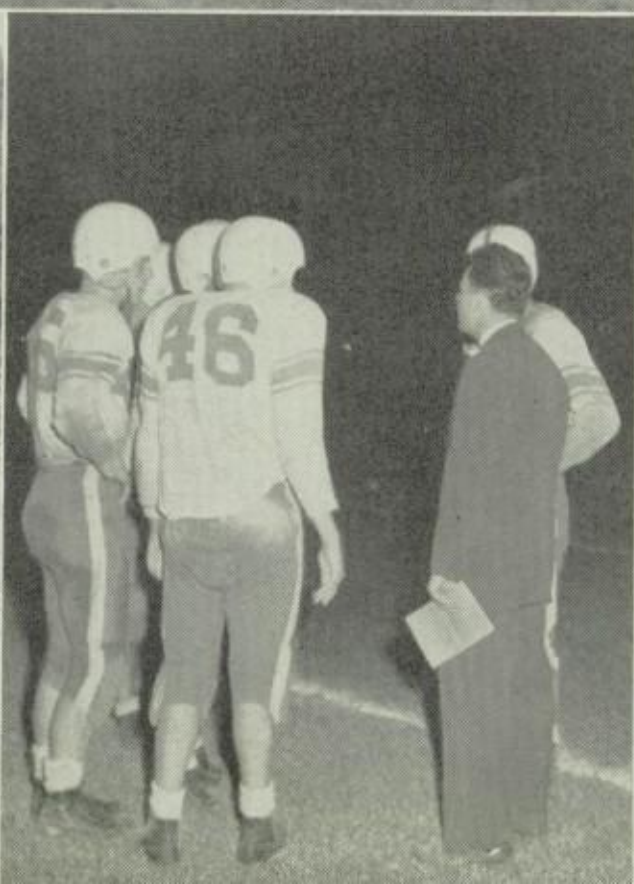

The papooses followed a pattern of winning with a wallop—only one of the five penetrated the Redskin goal—and losing by not more than two touchdowns, although failing to score against their conquerors.

The rhinies thumped Washington's Continentals, 46-0; Sacred Heart's Spartans, 26-0; Wood School, 46-0; Warren Central's Warriors, 39-6; and Broad Ripple's Rockets, 42-0.

The Hornets of Howe stung the frosh, 7-0, and south side rival Southport shut out the papooses, 13-0.

We rise full of power,

With a new gymnasium, a Pep Club, and high student body enthusiasm to back them, the varsity netmen ended the '53-'54 season with a .380 record, winning nine and losing twelve.

Before Christmas vacation the 'Skins scalped Lawrence Central, 42-37; Cathedral, 45-39; Ben Davis, 57-54; and Deaf School, 78-45, while dropping contests to Warren Central, 40-31; Sacred Heart, 55-39; Howe, 63-45, and Speedway, in an overtime, 46-43.

With Christmas vacation came the Holiday Tourney and revenge as the Macmen topped Howe's Hornets, 31-30, but then they were eliminated by Crispus Attucks, 54-39.

After Christmas the Redskins re-opened the regular schedule in their new goal hall by topping Plainfield, 55-41. Others to feel the 'Skins' tomahawk were Washington, 45-40, in an overtime; Beech Grove, 66-43, and Broad Ripple, 52-50. Registering wins over the Manual bucketeers were Columbus, 54-42; Tech, 55-40; Shortridge, 38-33; Danville, Ill., 56-34; Crispus Attucks, 61-54, and Southport, 74-67. In the Sectionals the netters dropped a double overtime thriller to Warren Central, 49-47.

Tom Stevason was awarded the free throw trophy for hitting 95 of 133 attempts for a .714 percentage, while he also led the varsity in scoring with a total of 259 points.

springing from our dreams

The Redskin B-team finished its first net season in the new quarters with a total of 12 wins and seven losses.

Starting with a bang, the reserves topped Lawrence Central, 36-22, but fizzled the next week to Cathedral, 36-30.

Other wins were over Warren Central, 31-26; Sacred Heart, 32-25; Ben Davis, 43-21; Deaf School, 50-18; Howe, 37-34; Speedway, 35-26; Plainfield, 32-30; Washington, 27-25; Beech Grove, 32-27, and Southport, 50-41.

Defeats came at the hands of Columbus, 59-48; Tech, 33-30; Shortridge, 48-46; Broad Ripple, 43-40, and Danville, Ill., 55-51. In Manual's B-team Tourney the reserves were downed by Tech, 49-36, but avenged an earlier loss by topping Columbus, 42-32.

Manual's junior Redskins scored a total of 722 points while their opponents tallied 644.

Manual's freshman basketball squad ended its '53-54 season with a record of seven won and ten lost.

The Papooses scalped Broad Ripple, 25-24; Shortridge, 23-22; Sacred Heart twice, 23-21 and 25-24; Ben Davis, 29-25, and Memorial twice, 30-15 and 34-31.

The rhinies' first defeat came at the hands of Cathedral's Irish in the third game, 31-26. Other losses were to Southport, 37-18; Washington 25-23; Crispus Attucks, 35-31, in an overtime; Warren Central, 32-23, and Howe, 26-22. Double losses were to Tech, 34-24 and 37-25, and Harry Wood, 23-18 and 34-26.

Out of the dust

Adding a freshman team for the first time, the baseball squads started workouts in the gymnasium then, with nice weather, switched to the diamonds in Garfield Park.

Seven lettermen were back to bolster the diamond-men, coached by Mr. Walter Floyd and Mr. Howard Thrall. Lettermen are Bob Barnhart, third baseman; Jerry Clancy, second baseman; Don Crow, pitcher; Dave Liggett, catcher; Tom Stevason, shortstop; Phil Willsey, first baseman, and John Nelms, auxiliary player. Kenneth Dornfeld, Bob Glover, Jack Patterson, Ronald Presley, Phil Quinlan, Fred Sager, Bob Sexton, and Charles Wills were also back from last year.

On the schedule at press time were games with Shortridge, Howe, Warren Central, and Crispus Attucks in April; Lawrence Central, Broad Ripple, Southport, Franklin Township, Ben Davis, Cathedral, Washington, and Tech in May.

The City Tourney at Victory Field, June 1, 2, and 3, rounds out the season. In last year's tourney the Floydmen lost to Tech, 7-6, in extra innings.

dreams take shape

The thiniclad started running as early as mid-winter again this year to prepare for the Hoosier Relays at Indiana University on March 27.

In last year's relays the Manual trackmen took a first place in the sprint medley. Tom Hofmeister, Dale Loyd, Frank Morris, and Ronnie Mescall made up the medal winning relay team.

Coach Raymond Van Arsdale was counting on the services of eight lettermen from last year's team, which captured a third in the mile relay and a fifth in the low hurdles in last year's City Meet, and captured two third places—in the 440-yard relay and shuttle hurdle relay—and two fourth places—in the 880-yard relay and mile relay—in the 1953 Indianapolis Relays at the Tech oval.

Bob Bruhn, Art Dye, Al Helms, Charles Hight, Hofmeister, Mescall, Karl Walker, and Jim Wessel were the returning lettermen.

Crispus Attucks, Ben Davis, Lawrence Central, Columbus, and the City Meet rounded out the schedule for April, while the Sectional at Washington's oval was scheduled for May 7.

The fleet feet of dreams

Coach Raymond Ashley's 1953 cross country team lost but two meets while winning five.

The Redskin harriers outran Lawrence Central, 15-40; Southport, 24-31; Connersville, 15-47; Zionsville, 15-64; and Warren Central, 22-35. Columbus and Crispus Attucks were the teams to outdistance the 'Skins by scores of 19-23 and 21-39, respectively.

Andrew Brown, Walter Kidd, Bob Lindemann, Ronnie Mescall, Lloyd Scaggs, and Ken Wright won Block M's for their running. Distance men to win reserve M's were Jerry Clancy, Charles Eickman, Paul Harris, Carl Lasley, John Moore, and Jim Petree. Larry Baker, Ray Grider, and Larry Nelis were recipients of manager awards.

The taut hold of power

Along with a new building came a brand new sport for Manualites. Wrestling, under the tutelage of Mr. Jack Foster, was added to the Redskin athletic roster.

The tusslers finished their initial season with a four and seven record, defeating West Lafayette twice, 30-14 and 39-15, and Washington twice, 36-16 and 24-21; while defeats came from Crispus Attucks, 29-25, and Ben Davis twice, 41-6 and 37-11. The grunt and groaners placed seventh in the local sectional.

Mike Stainbrook, the only Block M sweater winner, was undefeated until the last match of the season and captured a second place in the sectional.

Block M's were awarded to Bob Alford, Dave Barton, Ken Fendley, Don Mayes, and Fred Merida.

Every hand helps shape the dream

"Play for fun" is the theme of intramural sports, offered to all boys and girls at Manual.

Girls' archery and tennis were not offered last fall because of unfinished facilities; however, track was added for the first time. Other femme sports were basketball, volleyball, badminton, ping pong, softball, and bowling. Activities are held three days a week after 2:30 under the direction of Miss Theo Parr and Miss Elena Raglin. After a girl participates in three different sports she becomes eligible for a charm medal award. The last award is a bracelet for the charms.

Basketball was the big sport for the boys this year, with about 120 boys out and an elimination tourney offering a trophy with the winners' names engraved on it. Table tennis was also offered this year. According to Mr. Howard Thrall, softball leagues in the spring, horseshoes, touch football and volleyball were planned as facilities permitted.

To Mike

One of my best friends. It has been nice know you for the past nine years. I know I am going to miss you, cause I don't think there is anyone who could replace you. No body else ^{no body else could be so mean} could be like you. You can draw your own conclusion about that statement.
I will never forget this last semester lunch period and those crazy things you did. ^{and said, and wouldn't have said} I sometimes got discussed with you, but I never could get mad at you. Sometimes I would have been better off if I had. You always were a little stinker even when we used to play in the toy band. But that's what makes the world interesting. ^{little bumps like you} the craziest guy that ever went to Manual. I had a lot of other dumb things to say, but I guess that's about enough. So, ~~you~~ ^{you} have the best of everything, you deserve it.

Well "scrungy" we had some good times in health and athletics. I hope you will always remember them and
me. Your pal.
